LABOR AND CAPITAL SUBJECT OF DEBATE

Law School Men to Meet, Team From Indiana.

GEORGETOWN-NOTRE DAME

Senator Gearin of Oregon Will Preside at Gaston Hall Contest Tonight.

Arrangements have been completed for the joint debate to be held this evening between the Georgeto vn University Law School team and one from the Notre Dame University, South Bend, Ind. The debate is to occur in Gaston Hall, Georgetown University building, at 8 o'clock. United States Senator John M. Gearin, of Oregon, will preside. The subject of the debate is "Resolved, That labor and capital should be compelled to settle their disputes through legally con-stituted boards of arbitration."

Notre Dame Selects Affirmative.

The question was submitted by the Georgetown Law School, and the Notre Dame team selected the affirmative. Senator Carter, of Montana; Repre-entative W. Bourke Cockran, of New York, and Edwin Walter Sims, solicitor of the Department of Commerce and Labor, are to act as judges.

The Notre Dame team will include Patrick M. Malloy, '07; Terrence B. Cosgrove, '06, and Galtzine A. Farbaugh, '07, The upholders of the Georgetown Law contention will be E. McHenry Gallaher, '08; Charles M. Mattingly, 07, and Lambert Lyne '08

The first speaker for Georgetown Law will be Lambert Igoe. '08

The first speaker for Georgetown Law will be Lambert Igoe. He was educated in the public schools and the parochial schools of Minnesota and Illinois, and received a diploma from De La Salle Institute at Chicago in 1903. Taking up the study of law, he promptly joined the debating society of Georgetown Law School and has since occupied a prominent place among its members.

MALONETON, Ky., May 17.-A special election, held for the purpose of determining which of two young Kentuck-ians is entitled to the hand of a woman, called the men of the surrounding country to Maloneton this week.

Yesterday, at the expense of the de-feated candidate, the successful rival and his bride left for the East, to spend contests to the people of the township. The best man was to take both bride and a clear field for the nomination. The woman most interested, Miss Ada Creighton, presided over the ballot box as clerk and judge.

Witherow is the son of the wealthlest land owner in the township. Warnock is a country school teacher.

The contest was the most remarkable canvass for votes that Kentucky has ever known. Every man and woman in the township became interested, and from house to house the rivals traveled in their quest for votes.

When the election came off it was so close that one vote was necessary to decide it. The schoolmaster then vote for himself, and got the nomination and the girl.
